

RED FLAG AND TALK

London Socialists Hold a Monster Mass Meeting.

TRAFALGAR SQUARE CROWDED

Their Utterances Were Mild and Mrs. Aveling Suggested That the Cities Give the Unemployed Work.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The demonstration in Trafalgar Square today to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the "Bloody Sunday" was attended by an enormous crowd. The large open space around Nelson's column was covered with men and women, who began gathering by thousands. On the other side of the square, the crowd reached well into the Strand by the time the speakers arrived, and the approaches through Parliament Street, Northumberland Avenue on the south side, were thronged for two hundred or three hundred yards back. Few policemen were in sight, but in Scotland Yard, a large body of reserves was held in readiness for action. The meeting, however, was perfectly orderly and the speeches were moderate.

James T. Pabst, the Battersea radical leader, presided at the principal stand. The most conspicuous speakers were Charles V. Starr, Councillor, M. P., for the Lambeth division of Cornwall; John Barnes, William Saunders, M. P., for the Westworth division of Nottingham; Dr. Aveling and Mrs. Aveling, Karl Marx's daughter. All the speakers were cheered enthusiastically and particularly the Avelings, who received an ovation from the many socialists present.

In his opening address Chairman Starr contradicted the proclamation of Sir Charles Warren, police commissioner, that six platforms would be granted. He advocated that the open spaces of the city and the police force be placed under the exclusive control of the London council.

Mild, sensible speeches. Mr. Cobden spoke in favor of the cities finding work for the tens of thousands of unemployed men now waiting the streets in search of work. He protested, however, against the recent demonstrations on Tower Hill and disclaimed all sympathy with the anarchistic utterances of the Tower Hill agitators.

Mrs. Aveling made probably the most moderate and sensible speech of her life. She said that the government might do much, now left undone, to solve the labor problem, which would always exist in either republic or monarchy, whether under a mere figurehead like the queen, a despot like the czar of Russia, or an absolute sovereign like the emperor of Germany.

After the meeting the enormous crowd melted away as quietly as it had gathered. Hundreds of red flags were carried by men around the platforms during the meeting, but there was little else to indicate the presence of extreme socialists and anarchists.

WHOLESALE SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Frank Ryan Murders a Man and Woman, Then Suicide.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—A shooting affair, which will probably cause the loss of three lives, took place in a disorderly house on Clark street, kept by Frank Whittaker and Susan Lee, at 3 o'clock this morning. Charles Ryan, of Sycamore, Ill., called at the house, and tried to induce the Lees woman to leave Whittaker and go with him. This she declined to do, and told Ryan to leave the house. While they were talking Whittaker entered the room. Ryan drew a revolver from his pocket and pressing the muzzle against the Lees woman's right side, pulled the trigger. The bullet passed through the woman's body and lodged in the left side.

WEARIED OF LIFE.

So a Milwaukee Man Blew Out His Brains in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Frederick M. Unger, supposed to have been a resident of Milwaukee, was found dead in bed in his room at the Broadway Central hotel, this city, Saturday afternoon. He had evidently committed suicide, for there was a bullet hole in his right temple and a revolver with one chamber empty in his right hand. No one at the hotel knew and he had no visitors, although he had stopped at the hotel at various times within the past six weeks. Unger was 35 years old and well dressed. He first came to the hotel on October 2 last, but had registered as from Chicago. Neither money nor jewelry was found on him, and nothing was left behind to explain the cause of his suicide. There was an envelope in his pocket addressed to Frederick M. Unger, No. 101 Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

SCARED SILENT.

Paris Anarchists Afraid to Speak Before the Gendarmes.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The much-trampered meeting of anarchists in this city today was a very paltry affair. Many of the leaders were expected to glory in the light speeches and to lead their followers to initiate themselves, were afraid to show themselves and consequently the meeting easily lacked speakers. About forty men and four women gathered in the wine shop called in Rue La Fayette where the demonstration was advertised to take place. Just before the first speaker rose some twenty policemen in citizens clothes walked in, and in a few minutes an equal number of detectives appeared. The force was so considerable that the anarchists did not venture to make any incendiary speeches. After two hours of very tame orations the meeting was adjourned indefinitely.

MARGARET MATHER MARRIED.

Her Husband Is Young Pabst, Son of Milwaukee's Millionaire Brewer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—A San Francisco special to the Chicago Herald says: "Margaret Mather, the statuette Juliet, has been married again. The hotel register that holds the names of the Mather troupe on its winter tour is still headed by the fair Margaret's maiden name. She omits only lately taken. If she were under oath on the witness stand she would respond to Mrs. G. G. Pabst. Just when or where the star struck herself to the impressionable son of Milwaukee's millionaire brewer is not certain. However, they are one and their marriage was celebrated in a quiet way, somewhere between Chicago and San Francisco.

The Mather combination opened at the Bush street theatre in this city, October 24. On October 22 a quiet young man in a dark suit slipped down on the deck at the California hotel and asked for a good room. He registered as "G. G. Pabst, Milwaukee," and was assigned to No. 622, second floor front. On October 24, two days after Mr. Pabst's arrival, the Mather troupe appeared at the California. Miss Mather asked if room 623 was vacant. It was, through the prior request of Mr. Pabst, and Miss Mather was soon resting in the cheerful apartment, separated from the big Milwaukee brewer's son by only a thin, ordinary hotel partition.

Every night after the play Mr. Pabst, Jr., of Milwaukee, was waiting at the stage door and Miss Mather had a gala escort to the hotel. When the troupe left San Francisco for Los Angeles a week ago Mr. Pabst occupied a berth in the same Pullman with Miss Mather.

Lawrence Hanley has been Miss Mather's leading man this season until the termination of the San Francisco engagement. He said today after some persuasion: "Miss Mather and young Pabst were married and decided to leave Chicago and San Francisco. The event took place in the former city. The young Milwaukeean has been a worshiper at the shrine of Miss Mather for a year or longer. He was very devoted last July, about the time of Miss Mather's divorce from Emil Haberkorn, the manager of the Pittsburgh orchestra. In fact it is an open secret that Miss Mather secured this divorce with the avowed intention of marrying young Pabst."

ANOTHER HERETIC TRIAL.

Dr. Smith of Cincinnati Is the Victim This Time.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13.—The trial of Dr. Henry Preserved Smith, on the charge of heresy, will begin tomorrow morning. Dr. Smith has refused to submit a synopsis of his defense to the newspaper, but he thinks that it would not be fair to the Presbytery. It is known that he will make a vigorous defense. He will claim that by holding that there is inerrancy in the scriptures he has not violated the confession of faith of the church, nor has he violated his obligation as a minister of the gospel. He will insist that he believes that the Bible is the word of God, and the infallible rule of faith and practice, but that such belief does not essentially demand that every word of the Bible is literally true and inspired. Dr. Smith will not retract anything that he has said in his pamphlet, but will defend his own case with the claim that his teachings and writings are not heretical.

ACROSS THE BORDER.

Chinamen Constantly Enter the United States via Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—The Times-Democrat San Antonio special says: It is claimed by the federal authorities along the Rio Grande borders that large numbers of Chinamen are crossing the river from Mexico into the United States each week, and that the customs officials are unable to prevent this wholesale violation of the exclusion act owing to a lack of river guards. A great many of these Chinamen are brought from the City of Mexico and the southern states of the republic by persons who make a business of smuggling them across the river at so much per head. A party of eighteen Chinamen arrived at Nuevo Laredo from an interior point of Mexico. They intended to cross into the United States, but learned that they were being watched by custom officers and so have not yet made the attempt.

MURDERED HIS BROTHER.

Horrible Act Committed at the Wedding Reception of the Sister.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—A bloody murder occurred at No. 118 Swiss street today, Patrick Frank Murphy cutting the throat of his brother, W. J. Murphy, a conductor on the Toledo division of the Lake Shore railway. Yesterday the two brothers were married, and today a reception was given in honor of the occasion. The murderer, who is a disolute character, remained in his room, and his brother said he would see what was the matter with him. Soon after he entered his room a struggle ensued in which Patrick cut the throat of his brother from ear to ear. The murderer gave himself up to the police. The murdered man leaves a widow and two children.

AFTER MEXICAN BRIGADES.

United States Troops on the Scout for Greasers in Texas.

RIO GRANDE CITY, TEX., Nov. 13.—Second Lieutenant Charles E. Hayes, eighteenth infantry, with a detachment of Negro and Indian scouts, has left Fort Ringgold, upon the order of Gen. Frank Westcott, for a ten days scout through the northern portion of Starr county, it being reported that a band of Mexican brigades had gathered at a rendezvous on the De La Lanza ranch. These outlaws are causing much annoyance to the border citizens and a strong effort is to be made by United States troops to effect their capture.

HOT FIGHT ON HAND

Fifty-Second Congress Will Go Out Scrapping.

WASHBURN'S ANTI-OPTION BILL

The Free Coinage Bill, the Sundry Civil Bill and Others Will Make the Go a Hard One.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—On Monday, December 5, three weeks from now, the fifty-second congress will meet in final session. In the interests which have centered upon the make-up and action of the fifty-third congress, sight has been lost for the time of the important work yet remaining uncompleted on the calendar of the fifty-second congress.

One of the first matters to be brought before the senate will be the Washburn anti-option bill, which has already passed the house, and has shown that it has a clear majority in favor of its passage in the senate.

The title of the bill is "H. R. 7,845, an act defining options and futures, imposing special taxes on dealers therein and requiring such persons to obtain a license, and for other purposes."

Its provisions are so sweeping that they would practically, it is charged, shut up the Chicago wheat pit, the New Orleans cotton exchange, and other institutions of like character. A strong opposition was developed to the bill in the senate, but there was a still stronger one in its favor. Mr. Washburn of Minnesota, who had the bill in charge, only consented to lay it aside so as to allow of an adjournment of congress when August had arrived, on condition that it should be made the first special order of the extra session and should be fought out to a finish. This accordingly has to be done.

Other important bills. The senate has a number of important bills on its calendar, including the "free wool bill" and other so-called "pop-gun" tariff repeal measures of the house. These have stumbled hitherto in the committee on finance, but a determined effort will be made to bring them out and to send them up to the president for his action.

The house may possibly be given an opportunity to reconsider its action and to take up the senate's free coinage of the silver bill. The silver men will try to bring this about. The appropriations of the current year will probably evoke little discussion except in one important respect. Secretary of the Treasury Foster, to whom the law requires that all estimates shall be sent prior to the meeting of congress, has already intimated informally that those estimates will simply be a duplication of the appropriations which congress has already agreed to be necessary for this year, and that no recommendations will be made for any increases of expenditure or of force.

The one exception upon which a lively discussion may be looked for, is the part of the sundry civil bill which makes appropriation for expenses of the United States courts, commissioners and marshals and deputy marshals.

SUNDY CIVIL.

Mr. Allison stated to the senate when reporting the sundry civil bill for this year, as agreed upon in conference, that the reduction made by the house would inevitably result in a deficiency. The senate wished to appropriate $900,000 for "fees and expenses of United States marshals and deputies;" the house cut the amount down to $675,000, and stuck to that figure. The senate gave $145,000 for fees of United States commissioners; the house knocked off $45,000. The senate appropriated $25,000 for fees of clerks, etc.; the house reduced the amount to $175,000.

IS THIS THE CAUSE?

Pettigrew Says Harrison's Unpopularity Did It.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Senator E. F. Pettigrew of South Carolina arrived in New York today to meet some capitalists who are associated with him in building a railroad from Sioux Falls to Puget Sound. The senator expressed himself with feeling emphasis on the presidential election and the cause of President Harrison's defeat. He does not think it was a defeat altogether of the republican party.

"We people, especially in the north-west," he said, "wanted Blaine nominated. If he had been he would surely have carried the election, but the office holders insisted on Harrison and by the most disgraceful use of power in the history of political history he was nominated. Some other people wanted Cleveland and got him, and the leaders of the democracy were forced to support him. The office holders could not force their political allies to support their candidate."

"Where a man has one hundred thousand votes to dispose of he is bound to support six hundred thousand voters, and you can not expect them to support him very earnestly to say the least. President Harrison lost several thousand votes in Illinois, if not the state, on account of his attitude toward the farmers."

"How do you account for President Harrison's defeat?"

"I think it was largely caused by his personal unpopularity and littleness in using the power of officeholders to force his nomination when Blaine was the overwhelming choice of the country. I am a strong republican and as firm a believer in the principles as any man can be, but I cannot help thinking the Minnesota convention made a grave mistake. No, I do not think the election of protection nor, as the democrats claim, that the republican party is dead. They will find that the republican party will find many more alive for many years to come, and that protection will survive. I think a good many democrats are in favor of protection in some form. I do not believe they will dare pass any measure looking to the Thick Weather Prevents the Schooner Sheldon From Making Out Her Name—Another Lake Horror.

MACKINAW CITY, Nov. 13.—The schooner Sheldon reports what appeared to be a large-sized canal schooner drifting diemast and helpless off Manitowish. On account of thick weather her name could not be made out. The Sheldon had considerable canvas carried away in yesterday's gale on Lake Michigan. The unknown wreck may be that of the schooner W. H. Rounds, which is several days overdue at Escanaba. The Rounds passed the straits Monday and nothing since has been heard of her. Captain Smith of the steamer Colwell, which lay in the straits at anchor when the Rounds was towed into Lake Michigan by the tug Mosley Bird, feels certain that the Rounds must have experienced disaster.

BLOOD STAINED GRIP.

Perhaps It Belongs to a Man Who Wronged His Wife.

SAGINAW, Nov. 13.—Word was received here yesterday that a leather satchel had been found at Paine's station. The satchel is nickel-plated and had blood stains upon it both inside and outside. It contained the marriage certificate and record of the marriage of Mrs. Eva Norris and William Howard, who were married July 12, 1892, by the Rev. W. J. Duryea. On an envelope in the satchel was marked "Hamilton," and in the left hand corner was marked the name "Ashley." Today the postmaster at Paine's received a message from Ashley, stating that the couple referred to in the certificate were married at Ashley in July; that the man had abandoned his wife and his present whereabouts are unknown. The wife is lying at the point of death at her home in Ashley. How the satchel came where it was found and how the discovery came upon it is an unsolved mystery.

Frenchman Living in Chicago Commits Suicide With a Razor.

NILES, Nov. 13.—Niles was given a ghastly sensation today by the suicide of a stranger named Stephen Bouchet, a middle-aged, well-dressed Frenchman, who, before he died, gave his name as Lyons, France. He was seen at 1 o'clock by the side of the Michigan Central railroad track by trainmen in the act of cutting his throat with a razor.

The authorities were notified and he was brought to the city and put under medical care. He survived until 5 o'clock. He could speak only the French language, and wrote that family troubles had led to the act. He gave his residence as No. 18 State street, Chicago. Before dying he will be $1,200 of his property to the Catholic church here.

ANOTHER RIOT

The Pent Up Feeling at Homestead

Breaks Out Again in a Fight.

Fifty Shots Fired in a Mob of Strikers.

Nobody is Reported to Have Been Killed.

A Quarrel Between Union and Non-Union Men.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 13.—The period of comparative quietness which has prevailed in Homestead since the militia left died out today, and the pent up feelings of the strikers broke out afresh in a riot in which at least fifty shots were fired, but miraculously no person was killed, though a score were hit by flying bullets. A party of seven non-union colored men were on their way to their boarding houses about 4:45 o'clock this afternoon, when a man, supposed to be a striker, attacked two of the negroes, Charles Carroll and Fred Lewis. Lewis was knocked down. This was a signal for a large crowd to gather at the scene of the trouble. Lewis' companion came to his rescue and a terrible riot took place between the colored men on one side and the crowd, supposed to be all strikers, on the other.

The two sides fought desperately and fired their revolvers and slashed each other with knives at close quarters for several minutes, when the negroes made a dash through the crowd for their boarding house. They were followed by the hooting, blood-thirsty crowd, which by this time numbered at least two thousand men, including many women and children. The crowd fired and threw stones at the fleeing negroes and in turn returned the fire on the crowd. How so many escaped instant death is a miracle. At least two dozen people were injured by flying missiles, but as far as can be learned none were killed. The seven negroes and a number of strikers have been arrested. The greatest excitement prevails here tonight and more deputies have been asked for.

HUNTINGTON IS SILENT.

He Refuses to Talk About His Mexican Mineral Interests.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—The Times-Democrat, Durango, Mexico, special says: C. P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific, has been warmly received by the people of this city. Mr. Huntington has been an active participant in the celebration of the completion of the Mexican International railroad, and has made a close study of the wonderfully rich mining resources of this section. He has visited the famous iron mountain which he recently purchased, but refused to make any statement for publication concerning the consideration involved in his plans for utilizing the immense deposit of iron. Mr. Huntington also has some very valuable silver mines in the state of Durango, and it is reported on good authority that he will soon establish a large smelter in this city.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The report that the situation in Samoa is unsatisfactory to the foreign office is confirmed. The officiousness of Robert Louis Stevenson is pushing British interests on the island and has been especially disagreeing to foreign office.
